

Comic Sequencing and Retelling

Cut and arrange three wordless four-panel stories: a paper airplane, a growing flower and a block bridge. Follow a character and explain what changes from one picture to the next.

Materials

Matching A4 or Letter paper; crayons or colored pencils; ruler. For cutting, child-appropriate scissors and adult help. Glue is optional.

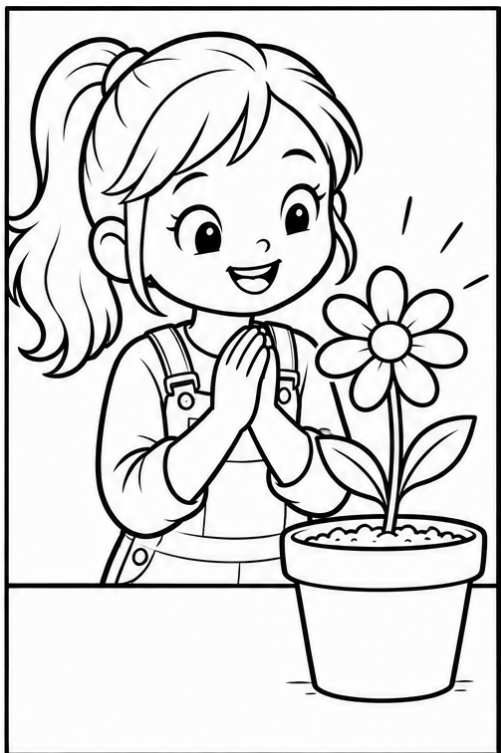

1. The six-page file contains instructions, three story-card sheets, a shared 1-4 board and a reference. Choose just one story: print page 2, 3 or 4, plus page 5.
2. Color the same character consistently. With adult help, cut only the outside dashed rectangles. Keep each picture's full black frame. Mix only one story's four cards at a time.
3. Place the cards in slots 1-4, left to right and then top to bottom. Point or say a sentence for each. The cards have no answer numbers; the last page shows the original order.
4. Without scissors, point to the pictures in order. A flower grows over time, not immediately after watering. Try another order and explain a different story; this is play, not a test.
